

Regarding Local Number Portability: Docket 95-116

Its about time we create a method for dialing a person BY NAME.

The name would then be sent to a national database, where their current telephone number would be looked up and either sent back or dialed for them.

Advantages:

1. There is currently no cellular phone number directory.

This creates an electronic phone number directory.

2. It's much easier to remember a person's name than a number.

3. Changing phone numbers is as easy as changing the number in the database.

Disadvantages:

1. This method introduces security problems.

2. A method for dialing letters will have to be standardized.
